TAX REDUCTIONS ARE SATISFACTORY TO ADMINISTRATION

Indications are That President Will Affix Signature

BULLETIN
Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Speaker Longworth and Vice President Dawes today signed the $387,000,000 tax reduction bill and it then was transmitted to the White House by special messenger for the President's signature.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Enactment into law of the revenue bill proposing tax reduction of $387,000,000 this year awaited today only the signature of President Coolidge who was expected to approve the measure within a short time.

Although the bill somewhat exceeds the reduction in revenue which the treasury believed safe, Secretary Mellon said today it was generally satisfactory to the administration.

Senate approval late yesterday by a vote of 61 to 19 of the compromise reached in the conference with the house completed the work of congress on its first and probably most important piece of legislation this session.

Exceeds Mellon's Figure

The total amount of reduction goes almost $40,000,000 beyond the outside limit which Secretary Mellon had indicated the condition of the treasury would permit, but favorable action by the president is believed assured on the promise of administration leaders in congress to forestall some of the pending bills calling for additional expenditures.

The widespread slashes in taxes would become effective in most instances immediately on enactment of the measure and income tax payers would have their assessment cut by more than $200,000,000 with the reduced rates effective on first payments for this year which are due March 15.

More than 2,200,000 of the approximately 7,000,000 federal tax payers would be relieved of all taxation through the proposed increases in personal exemption from $1,600 to $1,500 for single persons and from $2,000 to $3,500 for married persons.

Congress Made Record

Hastening to complete the bill in order to permit the reductions to be effective with the first payments, congress side-tracked much other legislation and perfected the measure in almost record breaking time, less than three months after the opening of the session.

The demand for haste was speeded by leaders of both parties in the house and senate and resulted in a compromise between the parties in both branches on the major provisions of the bill.

As a result the principal fight developed over the inheritance tax, which the senate voted to repeal but which was kept in the bill by the house, which modified the rates. In contrast to the two previous reduction bills voted since the war, almost complete agreement was reached between the party leaders on the vital income tax schedules.

Fricker's Lawyers to Make a Second Appeal

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Counsel for Emil Fricker, condemned Madison County farmer, today filed notice in the supreme court that a second appeal would be made within 25 days.

Fricker's sentence of hanging was affirmed by the court at its last session. He was convicted of the murder of John Nunkesser, another Madison County farmer.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Trading in grain futures will be limited to one million bushels daily for a single operator under amendment to the futures trading act introduced today by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas.

STRANGE SICKNESS MAKES APPEARANCE IN NUMEROUS COUNTIES SOUTH OF HERE

Physicians and Health Authorities Puzzled Over Disease

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Appearance of a strange malady among children of Tazewell and Woodford counties has caused some uneasiness among parents and is puzzling physicians, including health authorities who have been called to diagnose some cases. Closing of schools is considered in some sections where the disease has reached epidemic stage.

The ailment is a rash somewhat similar to the rash of scarlet fever but lacking the fever and other symptoms of that disease. It has usually begun as a surface inflammation around the neck and traveled rapidly down over the entire body and limbs. Without complications that is all there is to it. More than a hundred cases of the rash have been reported by one physician at Morton, 10 miles east of here.

No quarantine measures have been taken, though in some instances homes have been mistakenly quarantined for scarlet fever.

FIND GERMAN MEASLES.

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A state inspector was called here to diagnose a strange disease that has broken out among students at Knox College.

The students were ill but a short time and the rash that broke out over their bodies soon disappeared. The disease was diagnosed as German measles by the state health department man. Those who were afflicted were quarantined for a short time.

MAQUON SCHOOLS CLOSED.

Maquon, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Schools have been closed here and a ban placed on public affairs of all kinds due to an epidemic of scarlet fever. New cases are reported almost daily. So far the disease has been confined to children and none of them has had it in a serious form. The schools were closed on the advice of a state health department official, who was called.

Use of Fire Debris on Paw Paw Streets Brings Some Kicks

(Telegraph Special Service)

Paw Paw, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The streets of Paw Paw are being resurfaced with the debris from the burned school building, an action which is the subject of more or less criticism in this locality. A great deal of stone was left in the charred ruins and Supervisor Eny Kretsch placed the township stone crusher on the lots crushing up all of the burned material which is being hauled and placed on the streets of the village. It is planned to place gravel on top of the crushed rock as soon as the weather will permit. Motorists are criticizing the action, claiming that nails in the debris are ruining tires of automobiles, and last week the school children received three cents a pound for nails picked out of the material which had been spread on the streets.

Ice Started to Move Again this Afternoon

A rise in the stage of water started the ice, which was held on the north side of the island, to move this afternoon and large fields were coming down over the dam. The gorges near Grand Detour have broken up somewhat due to the mild weather of the past week and indications early this afternoon pointed to the river being cleared of ice by the end of the week.

FARMERS OPPOSE HIGHER FREIGHT RATES ON CROPS

Favor Dickinson Bill and Proposed State Police Force

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Railroads were advised to look to some other sources than American farms for increased revenues, in resolutions unanimously adopted by the Illinois Farmers' Institute here today.

"Principles of the Dickinson bill" as a solution of the farm surplus problem were also unanimously endorsed. Regarding advanced freight rates, the farmers resolved as follows:

"While we realized the importance of adequate railway service, we believe that under present conditions any increase in railroad revenues, to maintain such service, should be obtained from other sources than through increased freight rates on farm products. We are therefore opposed to any such rate increase. Because the interest of Illinois farmers is largely in eastern freight rates, and because the net earnings of the eastern railroads are so much greater than the net earnings of Illinois farmers, we ask that the Interstate Commerce Commission order a reasonable reduction in the eastern freight zone."

For State Police Force.

Other resolutions endorsed legislation for "an adequate non-political state police force"; urged farmers and other home owners to support the revenue amendment to the constitution at the next state election; urged appropriation by congress of the $6,000,000 bill for eradication of bovine tuberculosis; urged "speedy development of internal waterways"; and legislation to stabilize the purchasing power of the dollar.

Concerning the surplus problem, the resolutions were as follows:

"Believing that the uncontrolled distribution of the surplus of farm commodities is a controlling factor in the present inequality between the products of the American farmer and the products of industry, finance and labor, we endorse the principles involved in the bill now pending in congress known as the Dickinson bill."

"We are in full accord," another resolution said, "with the work done by the farm bureaus, the farmers' elevators and other organizations toward the development of better marketing facilities through the creation of co-operative marketing agencies. We therefore endorse the present movement on the farm of the farm bureaus and farmers' elevators looking to the establishment of a central marketing agency and also the movement looking to the pooling of the soft wheat produced in a large portion of this state."

Poor Sewers Cause Bad Flood in Rockford Today

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Basements of 70 residents were flooded by sewage and storm water and two families had to be rescued in the police boat as the result of flood conditions in the southeast part of the city. On one avenue the water was three feet deep, one foot higher than ever recorded before.

Nearly 1,000 phone lines were put out of commission temporarily when flood waters backed up in a conduit main hole and soaked into a leaky underground cable.

Fined $200 and Costs on Charge of a Constable

Tony Cantagello was fined $200 and costs yesterday by Justice Martin J. Gannon on a charge of disorderly conduct, preferred against him by Constable Stephen Tibbet. The original warrant charged Cantagello with resisting an officer, he having been alleged to have used threatening remarks to the constable when that officer attempted to serve papers on his last week. Cantagello was sent to the county jail when he failed to pay the fine.

Countess Faces Return to Ellis Island Abode

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—There now is a possibility that the Countess of Cathcart will renew her acquaintance with Ellis Island before it is decided finally whether she will be given the freedom of the country or be sent back to England.

Her attorney, A. G. Hays, has arranged with Federal Attorney Buckner to postpone the hearing on her writ of habeas corpus until Friday of next week. As the Countess' ten days "shore leave" expires at 11 o'clock next Wednesday night, she faces return to the jurisdiction of the immigration authorities then.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. E. M. Halbert of San Angelo, Tex., whose airplane flight to the bedside of an ill granddaughter at Decatur, Illinois, was disrupted by a forced landing near Butler, Mo., late yesterday, arrived here by train today and continued to Decatur by rail.

SUBLETTE HERD OF JERSEYS HAS STATE'S RECORD

P. A. Lauer's Cows Averaged 1,154 Lbs. of Milk in January

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Milk production honors for January among the 12,000 or more Illinois dairy cows that are being put to test in dairy herd improvement associations of the state were divided between Stephenson and Lee counties, according to an announcement by C. S. Rhode, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture University of Illinois, who has charge of these associations. Stephenson county claimed the highest producing cow for the month when a purebred Holstein owned by Ray Angle, Dakota, turned in a production of 2,756 pounds of butter and 110.2 pounds of fat, while Lee county handed the highest pure bred and grade Jerseys owned by P. A. Lauer, Sublette, made an average record of 1,154 pounds of milk and 52.5 pounds of fat during the month.

Only two counties, Stephenson and Ogle, succeeded in getting two cows apiece among the ten best individuals for the month, but there were four counties, Lee, Ogle, LaSalle and Stephenson, which succeeded in placing two herds each among the list of ten highest producing ones for the month. Other counties represented among the ten best cows were LaSalle, Carroll, JoDaviess, McHenry, Will and Kane, while Vermillion and Carroll were the other counties represented in the list of ten best herds for the month.

Owners of the ten highest producing cows for the month, together with the butterfat production of the individual animals, were Ray Angle, Dakota, 11.2 pounds of fat; Adam Pancake, Hanson, 8.4 pounds of fat; Kaufman Brothers, Carroll, 8.3 pounds; Tom Bonjour, Stockton, 8.6 pounds; L. M. Gentry, 8.3 pounds and 85 pounds; W. T. Rawleigh, Freeport, 84.5 pounds; H. T. Eppel Woodstock, 84.5 pounds; W. W. Boughton, Plainfield, 82.9 pounds and H. L. Averill, Batavia, 82.1 pounds.

Owners of the ten best herds for the month, together with the average butterfat production of each cow in the herd were: P. A. Lauer, Sublette, 52.5 pounds; Kaufman Brothers, 48.3 pounds; Rapp Brothers, Sublette, 48.1 pounds; George Stutz, Oregon, 45.4 pounds; Melvin Tait, Ottawa, 44.3 pounds; Vernon Hoch, Freeport, 44 pounds; H. O. Horneman, Danville, 43.3 pounds; Cy Bothhouse, Oregon, 42 pounds; J. R. Logan, Steward, 42.3 pounds, and Adam Pancake, 42.7 pounds.

OPEN FIGHT ON DILG IN STATE WALTON LEAGUE

National President is Attacked at Morning Convention

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—After stubborn opposition from Clark Venable active leader of the anti-Dilg forces in the fourth annual convention of the Illinois State Division of the Izaak Walton League of America here, Carl E. Simon of Chicago, personal representative of the national president of the league, was permitted to read a voluminous message from Mr. Dilg this morning under a suspension of the rules.

The message carried nothing in connection with the threatened attack on Dilg's candidacy for re-election, but dealt solely with his reasons for not being able to attend the convention and suggestions for certain changes in organization.

Dr. Hanford J. Morlan, state president, took issue with Mr. Simon on certain statements in the message and a lively tilt resulted. President Morlan asserted that the Illinois division had been "deliberately and maliciously humiliated by Mr. Dilg" and its activities ignored in reports carried in the league's official publication.

ALIEN GANGLAND DESERTED PLACE OFFICERS REPORT

Gangsters Take to Cover Following Raids in Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Chicago's alien gangland, scene of 41 slayings, was described today by the police as "a deserted village." There has been a general exodus of gunmen from their haunts since raids were started this week to pick up deportable foreigners who figure in gang and liquor feuds is the area.

Though the raiders last night added 50 suspects to the 21 being held for deportation proceedings, officials said few of the aliens who are connected with alcohol and killing operations have fallen into the net. Most of these have left or have taken to cover, they thought.

Once outside Chicago, the gangsters must go to work to live or return and risk arrest. And special precaution will be taken to arrest them when they come back, police said.

Assurance of ability to verify or disprove within two hours any claims of legal entry to this country made by suspects, has been given by government immigration inspectors working with the police who planned to continue the raids and speed up the investigation of the status of those arrested.

Knows 3 English Words
Writs of habeas corpus have been asked by two of those held since Monday while inspectors hastened to question them before the court passes on the applications. Questioning of one suspect disclosed he had been in this country 19 years and that the only three English words he knew were "yes," "no" and "dollar." Another, here seven years, was thought to have been smuggled over the Canadian border.

Meanwhile, the inquest into the death of Edward Baldelli, "The Eagle," whose bruised and bullet-perced body was found on an ash heap in an alley early yesterday, was continued to March 5. Baldelli was the chauffeur of Orazio Tropea, "The Scourge," killed a week ago, and a friend of Vito Boncone, found shot to death on a suburban roadside Sunday.

Police activity and marksmanship yesterday brought death to Charles Bunworth, paroled life term convict, fleeing in an automobile with other gunmen from Chicago. Less than seven months after his release Bunworth killed Paul Honkus.

GUNMAN TAKEN TO ILLINOIS PENITENTIARY FROM OREGON AFTER HE PLEADED GUILTY

WOUNDED BANDIT SENTENCED; GOT FIVE YEAR TERM

Joe Murray Only One of Gang Who Has Not Been Tried

Leo Lorenzo, alias Henry Williams, the wounded bandit who was shot through the jaw February 9th in the attempted "rescue" of Fairfield and Sawyer, Clinton payroll bandits, was sentenced to serve a term not to exceed five years in prison and to pay a fine of $1,000 as the penalty of his part in the sensational affair.

Joe Murray, his pal, is awaiting trial and may be disposed of in the same manner. The action was entirely unexpected and took place before many were aware of what was going on.

This action disposed of the fourth member of the "wild west" show, Fairfield and Sawyer are in prison, Harry Marks was killed in the pitched battle near Chadwick, Lorenzo is on his way to prison, and Murray is awaiting trial.

It was reported that 10 imported gunmen had arrived in Clinton from Chicago to terrorize the city, but the reports could not be traced to any definite source.

Rockford Nurse Has Broken Spinal Cord

Rockford—Injuries sustained when she was jostled from a vestibule of a street car during a rush hour last ten days ago developed severely for Miss Hazel Totten, industrial nurse at the Mechanics Machine Co., when she was taken to St. Anthony hospital suffering from a probable fracture of the spine.

Miss Totten's injuries, while painful for a couple of days following her fall, were not first regarded as particularly serious and she had resumed her duties at the southeast and factory. Last night she suffered extreme pain and her physician ordered x-rays and hospital care following an examination, examination which indicated a broken spinal bone.

Robert Reed Faces a Long Time in Prison's Confinement

Robert Reed, alias Robert Ford Chester, pleaded guilty in the circuit court at Oregon Tuesday afternoon to a charge of assault with intent to kill and yesterday Deputy Sheriff George Banning turned him over to the authorities at the Joliet penitentiary. Reed faces about 20 years of penitentiary sentences, for after serving the indeterminate sentence at Joliet he will be turned over to the Michigan authorities to be returned to Jackson, where he still has three years and seven months to serve.

Reed shot a Chicago, Burlington & Quincy special agent at Rochelle ten years ago, when he had been trailed to a house in the residential district and was about to be arrested for complicity in thefts of several hundred pounds of butter from merchandise cars. He shot his way out of the house with two revolvers and escaped. About three weeks ago, during a drinking party with a woman with whom he was living at Elgin, he was arrested and taken to Chicago, but later he was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Banning, who has been conducting a search for him for the past ten years. A FAREWELL—

My fairest child, I have no song to give you; No lark could pipe to skies so dull and gray;

Yet, ere we part, one lesson I can leave you For every day.

Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever; Do noble deeds, not dream them all day long;

And so make life, death, and that vast forever One grand, sweet song.

—Charles Kingsley.

"The Power of The Home Maker"

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Responsibilities of the modern home maker were pictured here today as extending beyond the front gate and the street, by Mrs. Neale S. Knowles of the Extension Service of Iowa State College of Agriculture, who said that the entire world is included in the sphere of the house wife's influence.

The address, "The Power of the Home Maker," was delivered as a part of the domestic science program of the State Farmers' Institute which closed here today after a three-day session. Mrs. Knowles spoke before a large audience of farm housewives. "The home maker," Mrs. Knowles said, "who can successfully accept this broad view point and work from it, must however make the home within the four walls the base of her activity. That must be her major effort. That unit must be like the roots of the great elm. The elm cannot continue to spread shade and cheer unless its roots are deeply set and firmly placed. The home cannot exert a vital community and national influence unless the base unit within the four walls is well organized and well anchored. Without that stability its efforts are not only pretexts but disastrous."

"The home maker must feel that the real business of the home is to develop individuals who are real citizens because they can work and live in harmony with others outside of the home. They must be genuine all the way. The best brought up children have seen their parents as they are. They must be fair. They cannot be unless they are treated fairly. The most searching test of the home maker's ability is her power to fully understand the child so he may be treated fairly."

Women Mooseheart Legion Meeting

The Women of Mooseheart Legion held their meeting at Moose hall Tuesday evening with a good attendance. After the business session was closed, the Legionnaires and their husbands, enjoyed a social hour, dancing all the old fashioned dances.

Everyone enjoyed the evening very much and many requests were made for more of the old fashioned dances, which will be held later.

The next meeting will be held March 5th. After the meeting a social time with cards will be held for the Legionnaires. The hostesses will be Mrs. Otto Witzleb, Mrs. Ed. Witzleb and Mrs. Russell Wilhelm.

TO ENJOY PICNIC SUPPER THURSDAY EVE—

The Ladies of the G. A. R., their families and comrades of the G. A. R. will enjoy a picnic supper and entertainment in commemoration of the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington at the G. A. R. hall at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Members are asked to take dishes, silver, sandwiches and one article of food sufficient for ten persons.

MYSTIC WORKERS TO MEET—

The Mystic Workers will meet Friday evening in Union hall. A large class will be initiated with the drill team, doing the work. After the meeting a picnic supper will be served and all are invited to attend and bring their own dishes and sandwiches and one of the following articles on the menu, salmon loaf, creamed potatoes, cabbage salad, cake and pickles.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—

Stewed dried peaches, cereal, thin cream, tomato omelet, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Lunch—

Creamed shrimps in rice border, bran bread, apple and celery salad, orange cream pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—

Roast joint of lamb, mashed potatoes, creamed turnips, endive salad, canned strawberries, sponge cake, graham bread, milk, coffee.

Sometimes after opening a can of tomatoes there is some left, not enough for a meal but too much to waste. While any vegetable left-over can always be used in soup, sometimes we aren't making soup. This tomato omelet is a suggestion for using up left-over tomatoes. Tomato soup can be used, in which case omit the soda in the recipe.

Tomato Omelet.

One cup tomato pulp, 1/4 cup milk, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 4 eggs.

Canned tomatoes must be rubbed through a strainer. Heat puree and add soda. Melt 1 1/2 tablespoons butter, in sauce pan, stir in flour and slowly add tomato mixture, stirring constantly. Add milk and cook until thick and smooth. Season with salt and pepper and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon colored. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Melt remaining butter in hot spider, or omelet pan. When hissing hot turn in egg mixture. Cook slowly on top of stove or bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Fold and slide onto a hot platter and serve at once. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

Many a good luscious batch of divinity fudge has been ruined by too much stirring, little bride!

And many a good husband has been ruined by too much nagging from even so beloved a creature as a bride! If you must nag, at least be consistent! Don't raise him for not slicking up, and then proceed to give him the same w. k. juicy fruit for adorning his manly physique and scraping the old razor blade over the manly jowls!

You see, brides dear, you have been told so much about the knavish deeds to expect from spouses! Your little shell pink auricular appendages have been stuffed full of Old Wives' Tales.

You have read and you have heard and you have seen that once a man catches a street car he doesn't run, he will not exert himself to keep the skin she loves to touch.

Brides, do have a little plain horse sense, even nothing but colt sense if you can't achieve the fulgurous variety—but do have some!

Make up your mind to the fact that of course he isn't always going to be the image of John Barymore or Rudy Vaseino or Lord Chesterfield. He likes to smuggle down into that old patched smoking jacket or furs around the collar in those abominable old trousers just as much as you like occasionally to put on that faded old kimono when you give your face a clay pack or wash your hair.

It's really a tribute to your understanding and the dear intimacy that makes him free to do what he pleases when near you!

And by the same token when he asquid goes with you, of course he's going to put a gardenia in his button-hole and wear a shine on his patent leather shoes that will knock you for a goal.

It's proud of his wife he is, proud of her silky marcel, her white throat beneath the pearls, the dear little self she is all swathed up in her gorgeous Mandarin cape!

He's dressing up for you and no other frail in all this wide, wide world!

Mr. and Mrs. John Keplinger Surprised

Tuesday evening, Feb. 23rd, Mr. and Mrs. John Keplinger of Mount Morris were happily surprised, it being their twenty-first wedding anniversary.

A sumptuous supper which had been prepared by the ladies present was served at 6:30. Following the past, games and music were enjoyed.

Harvey Schrader, in behalf of the guests, presented Mr. and Mrs. Keplinger with a set of silver knives and forks.

At a late hour all departed wishing them many years of happiness.

Phidian Art Club Meeting

On Tuesday afternoon the meeting of the Phidian Art club was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Leland. After a short business meeting the program of the afternoon was opened by Miss Alice Powell. She played two piano selections, called "Why" and "Whims," by Robert Schumann. Her execution showed much talent and gave much pleasure. When asked for an encore she responded with "Romance," by Frank L. Farge.

The president then called on Mrs. S. W. Lehman for the regular art program. This proved to be a well thought out criticism of an exhibit of pictures by Chas. Engel, one of Dixon's artists, whose work is on display at the Nachusa Tavern.

The paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. E. B. Raymond. Her subject was Dorothy Canfield and it was treated in a most interesting way. This typical American woman who has a college president for a father and a husband who is both writer and critic, was presented not only as a novelist, but as teacher, lecturer, war worker, wife and mother. Mrs. Raymond also gave short but clear reviews of several of Dorothy Canfield's novels and aroused a real desire to know the writer better.

During the social hour Mrs. Harry Lager and Mrs. Mark Keller assisted the hostess in serving delicious refreshments in the dining room.

Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Meeting

The Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Society held an all-day meeting Wednesday with Mrs. Edward Johnson, at her home in Nachusa, with about twenty-five present.

After a delicious dinner served at noon the meeting was opened with song, and a reading of the chapter of the Bible by the president. Roll call and minutes of the previous meeting followed.

Mrs. Leslie Onnen was accepted as a new member. The meeting was then turned over to the program committee, Mrs. Jule Hill being the chairman. Readings by Miss Grimes and Mrs. Patterson were both much enjoyed, as was the vocal duet by Mesdames Hill and Stanley and the readings by Darline Whitmer and Mrs. R. Livan.

The meeting was closed with song and the repetition of the Lord's Prayer. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ed. Stanley on Stony Point Road. The program committee for the next meeting is composed of Mrs. Ivan Floto, Chairman, Mrs. Jule Hill and Mrs. D. L. Heagy. The day was enjoyed by everyone.

Euchre Party Was Enjoyed

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Considine of Harmon entertained with a euchre party Sunday evening twenty-five friends. The decorations honored Washington's birthday. A tempting three-course luncheon was served. Mrs. Clyde Scheffler and Mrs. Clara

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Your Home.

Perhaps you can't afford flowers in the winter time. But you can pick maroon-red sumac anywhere along a country road. Try it in a plain stone crock for real beauty!

And, of course, you know that lilacs of the valley are grown in a bowl with water and pebbles and a little sawdust or gravel as easily as narcissus bulbs! Get a bowlful started for Easter time, or earlier, when you need posies even more!

Since short skirts remain another season, beauty experts are turning their attention to the ankle. Special ankle massaging and steaming are now being done in many beauty parlors.

You can do this yourself and for nothing, at home. To attain the ankle one loves to see step, stand on the tiptoes, stretch, come down, about 100 times a day.

Your Child's Books.

Books mean nothing, not even picture books, until a child is at least two. Do not be alarmed if the first shows no interest until three. Buy tin-ettes, untearable books of pictures only. The pictures should be of very simple design. Outline pictures are good.

Aged three, the child may be ready for "Mother Goose" and such stories as "Here and Now Story Book" by Lucy Sprague Mitchell.

At four, action pictures of trains and wagons and ships go over big. "Four and Twenty Tollers," by Lucas, is treasure trove for a four-year-old.

A Snappy Recipe.

Party bread. One-half cup lukewarm water, 2 tablespoons sugar. Break into water 2 yeast cakes. Set aside. Scald 2 cups of milk with one scant cup of sugar mixed with two-thirds cups cocoa. Add 3 tablespoons of shortening and 2 teaspoons salt. Leave until lukewarm then add yeast and 4 cups flour and beat well. Add 2 cups flour and stir in. Then knead until smooth and let rise until double in bulk. Knead slightly, shape in loaves and put in greased bread pans.

Let rise again, then bake in moderate oven, increasing the heat. Bake from 45 minutes to one hour.

Why Success Came.

Anna Case, singer, peddled soap supplies as a girl to pay for her music lessons, helped neighbors with babies and dishes, and drove the family horse on trips between town and depot at fifty cents a passenger. She says that hard work gets a person started, and rest and plenty of it keeps them going after they have arrived.

Galli Cured, singer, says she succeeded because she took stock of her assets, knew that she had a voice as her chief likelihood for fame, then went after it!

Try These on Your Stove.

OYSTER SANDWICHES: Wash 1 quart oysters, drain, and put through food chopper, heat to boiling point and drain. Add enough cream or rich milk to the oyster liquid to make a pint. Heat in double boiler. Melt 1/2 cup butter, add 1/2 cup flour and when smooth add to liquid and stir until thick. Add 2 egg yolks mixed with 1/4 cup lemon juice, chopped oysters, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and a few grains capers pepper.

Spread between bread cut lengthwise of the loaf and toasted on one side with the untoasted side buttered. Cut the sandwiches in narrow strips and serve hot garnished with water cross or parsley.

Marshmallows dropped in the cup before hot cocoa or chocolate is poured and a bit of vanilla in the cocoa make it luscious.

The Thing To Do.

In introductions, the younger person is always presented to the older, and a man, unless he is very much older or extremely distinguished, is always presented to the woman. A simple way of remembering is to speak the name first of the party to whom the other party is being introduced.

Thus, "Mrs. Older, Miss Young", "Mrs. Woman, may I present Mr. Man?"

NATURALIZATION.

An applicant for naturalization at Grand Rapids, Mich., was rejected because in answer to questions as to the duties of the vice president, he replied:

"The vice president? Why, he don't do nothing."

Apparently the late Tom Marshall couldn't have been vice president if he had had to pass a naturalization examination.

CROWDS.

The thrill of a huge crowd!

It was thrill that caused ancient Romans to build their big coliseum and to jam it full of people for every public event.

The world today is far less barbarous than the Romans, but there's hardly an American who doesn't get a thrill out of a big crowd assembled for some big sporting event.

The real thrill one gets out of watching the world series baseball games is not in the play, which often is ordinary, but in the crowd itself.

There's nothing else in the world quite like the great howl of cheers, shouts and general joy that comes from the crowd when a hit scores the winning run for the home team in the last of the ninth.

LAWS.

"There ought to be a law about this."

How often haven't you heard someone say that, when discussing some practice or other especially objectionable to him?

Probably that's the chief trouble with us today. We've been in the habit of saying that about everything, until we've loaded ourselves up with so many laws we can't keep track of them all.

The ideal state would be one that had as few laws as it possibly could get along with. Just now our aim seems to be to have as many as we can vote into existence.

DIVORCE.

Uniform divorce laws, the same in Ohio as in New York, in Maine as in Texas, are being urged on us now by many very well-meaning folk.

Let's examine the proposition a little before indorsing it too wholeheartedly.

How would you standardize these laws? Would the laws of the state that allows no divorces at all be the standard? Or those that allow divorce for almost anything? Or those that lie half way between?

And, on top of it all, do we want any more standardization than we have? Suppose people in one state have one idea about divorce, and people in another state have another idea; shouldn't each class be allowed to have its own kind of law on the subject?

The idea back of this move is praiseworthy. But the question will bear a lot of studying.

HEADLIGHTS.

You may think yourself a very careful, considerate auto driver. But before you plume yourself too highly, ask yourself one more question: how do you handle your headlights?

Do you always dim them on approaching another car? Do you always keep them dimmed except when there are no other cars coming and you can't see to drive without having them on full tilt?

If you don't you can't qualify as a considerate driver.

Bright headlights are a menace to everyone else on the road. Keep 'em dim.

And don't depend too much on glass lenses that are supposed to diffuse the glare and render it unobjectionable. Most of them are pretty nearly as binding as any other kind.

PRESS AGENTS.

Some time ago, if you remember, a couple of men were arrested in Los Angeles accused of a plot to make away with a movie actress. The reason alleged was that she had been active against the narcotic drug traffic.

Perhaps you remember that story. Do you remember any later stories telling of the men ever being sent to prison?

Of course you don't. Neither are you likely to read of any prison terms for the latest gang arrested there—men said to have plotted to kidnap another actress.

Read all news from Hollywood with a pinch of salt. There are a lot of very clever press agents in that town.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton
NO. 16—BACK TO HICKYDOO'S

Hickydo, the square wooden man who lived there, was working in his garden.

"I see it all now," squeaked the little mouse called Paddyfoot. "What?" cried the Twins.

"The bluejay that flew away with the blue cherry was blue whiskers himself. He knew who I was when he saw me climbing the tree. Who better? For it was he who changed me from a nice big bear into a miserable little mouse. Boo, hoo, hoo, hoo, hoo!" And Paddyfoot began to cry big round tears.

"It's too late to cry now," said Jupe kindly. "It was stupid of us to let such a thing happen, but it did happen, so what are we to do?"

"Hunt truffles," suggested the Truffle Hunter quickly.

"Oh, you don't understand," said Nancy. "We have to get the blue cherry because it is the only thing that will cure poor Twinkle Pen. The doctor prescribed it."

"I know!" cried Nick. "We'll hunt up Hickydo again."

"That's a very good idea indeed," agreed Jupe, the kangaroo. "But I don't know where to find him now."

"I do," squeaked Paddyfoot quickly. "I haven't been prime minister and chief cook and bottle-washer of the Land of the Blue Cherry for a hundred years all for nothing. We'll hunt up Hickydo again and ask him what to do. But first of all let's get off Cherry Bounce Hill. I've shivered and shaken until I am getting sick."

"So am I," said Nancy.

"So am I," said Nick.

"So am I," said Jupe.

"So am I," said the Truffle Hunter.

"Then get on my tail and I'll jump you down," said Jupe.

So they all got on the kangaroo's tail and he gave one big jump and landed safely on the Truffle Hunter's back porch where Waldo was waiting with a tea-towel over his arm.

"Do come in and have tea," begged the Truffle Hunter. "I know Waldo has it all ready. What have we, Waldo?"

"Truffles cooked with minced chicken," began the pig, when Nick said suddenly, "Why, Mister Truffles, I thought you said you didn't like chicken, not since you—"

"Oh, dear!" wailed the Truffle Hunter. "Do forget all that. I don't like chicken when you can taste it, but when you can't taste it, it's delicious, and cooked with truffles it—"

But he never got a chance to finish, for Jupe, the kangaroo, gave another jump, and as the Twins and Paddyfoot were still standing on his long tail, they went too, although it nearly jerked their heads off.

"I can't stand all day listening to that old goose talk when we have work to do," said Jupe. "Talking about his old chicken when all the time your poor fairy friends is suffering! Besides, we're just as far as ever from getting the blue cherry. Now that old blue whiskers has it, he has probably eaten it, and is having the court jeweler set the blue stone in the handle of his shaving brush this very minute."

All this time he kept bounding along in long jumps, and suddenly Paddyfoot said, "That's where Hickydo lives, in that house right there."

So Jupe stopped, and the others stepped off his tail, and they all went toward a large wooden house the little mouse had pointed out.

Hickydo, the square wooden man who lived there, was working in his garden.

"Hello, here!" he said in a wooden voice. "So you're back. Didn't you get the cherry?"

"No," explained Jupe. "A large bluejay stole it."

"Did someone steal your automobile, too?" asked Hickydo.

Jupe and the Twins and Paddyfoot all looked at each other in disgust.

"Aren't we dumb?" said Nick. "It's sitting out in front of the Truffle Hunter's house."

Her Own Way

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY
STARTED

When I said I was going to Chicago, it was this time that Chuck laughed.

"You would rather go up against a wicked city than me, wouldn't you, Judy? When are you going? May I ask?"

"Tomorrow morning, Chuck."

"Well, if you're not home in a month or two I'll probably drop down to see if you haven't changed your mind."

"Don't put yourself out, Chuck. I answered casually, 'and you'll have to excuse me now because I'm going home to pick up.'"

I had all my packing done when Dad came home that night with a return ticket to Chicago.

"Thank you, Dad," I said, "I'm all ready for the morning train. But why did you spend your money so foolishly?" I admonished as I held the return ticket up to him.

"Because I expect you back within a month," he answered seriously.

A baking powder economy you should not overlook!

Contains no alum—leaves no bitter taste

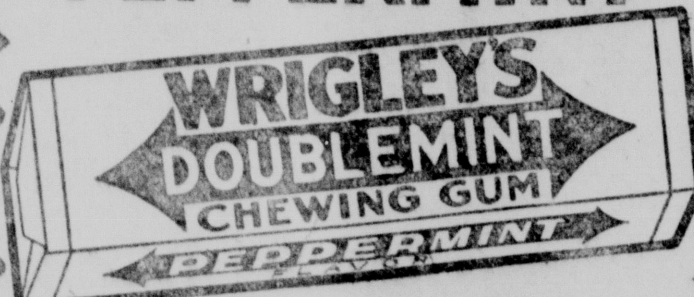

Poor old Dad and Mother! They hated to see me go and to tell the truth I was a bit shaky, but I was determined to keep up my bluff and I knew if I stayed at home they would not let me out of their sight. At the last Mother clung to me saying:

"Don't forget, child, to wear your heavy boots if it rains and wrap up warm if you go out at night. The evenings in Chicago are very cold."

Mother was heartbroken, but she had lived under Father's will for so long that she had no idea of what getting out on my own would mean to me. She had nothing to advise me about or even tell me except a few foolish details of physical care for my health.

I thought there was a tear in Dad's eye as I raised my face to kiss him.

good-bye, but his mouth was stern even when he spoke his last words to me, which were:

"Don't lose your return ticket." As I watched them from the window before the train started, I had a little qualm. I wondered if it wouldn't be better to stay at home with them even if I did have to give up my ideas about my own way or any liberty whatever.

"When I have children," I said to myself, "I will never expect them to go back to my ways which are dead and gone, but I'll try to travel on the new ways with them."

TOMORROW: Frightened.

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission of Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Read In. 47-15. Text: 434.

The water that I shall give him shall become in him a well of water springing up into eternal life.

Meditation—This woman thought to get enough life by satisfying physical appetites, by escape from work and by winning admiration. We think greater prominence, wealth, better clothes and more conspicuous friends would give it to us.

We are consumed with worry about all these things. When Christ becomes the real center of a man's life the soul finds within a fountain of thought, of affection and of actions which automatically overflows to others, quite independently of petty human competitions. When we live the overflowing life, others are blessed and so are we.

Prayer—Gracious Giver of the Water of Life, give us the living water. Grant that we be not like cisterns but rather like fountains which receive, but to give out.

Grant us to be generous in soul, always seeking to make our words and deeds bear testimony that Thou art the source of whatever goodness we may attain.

Is this your BIRTHDAY

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25

If so, and if you are a woman you will like dancing, card parties and society life in general.

But if you are a man who will have just the opposite likes.

Theaters and other amusements have great appeal for women born on this date while the man craves for work and his office or place of business will take most of his attention.

Women born on this date will marry wealthy men which will assure them a happy life.

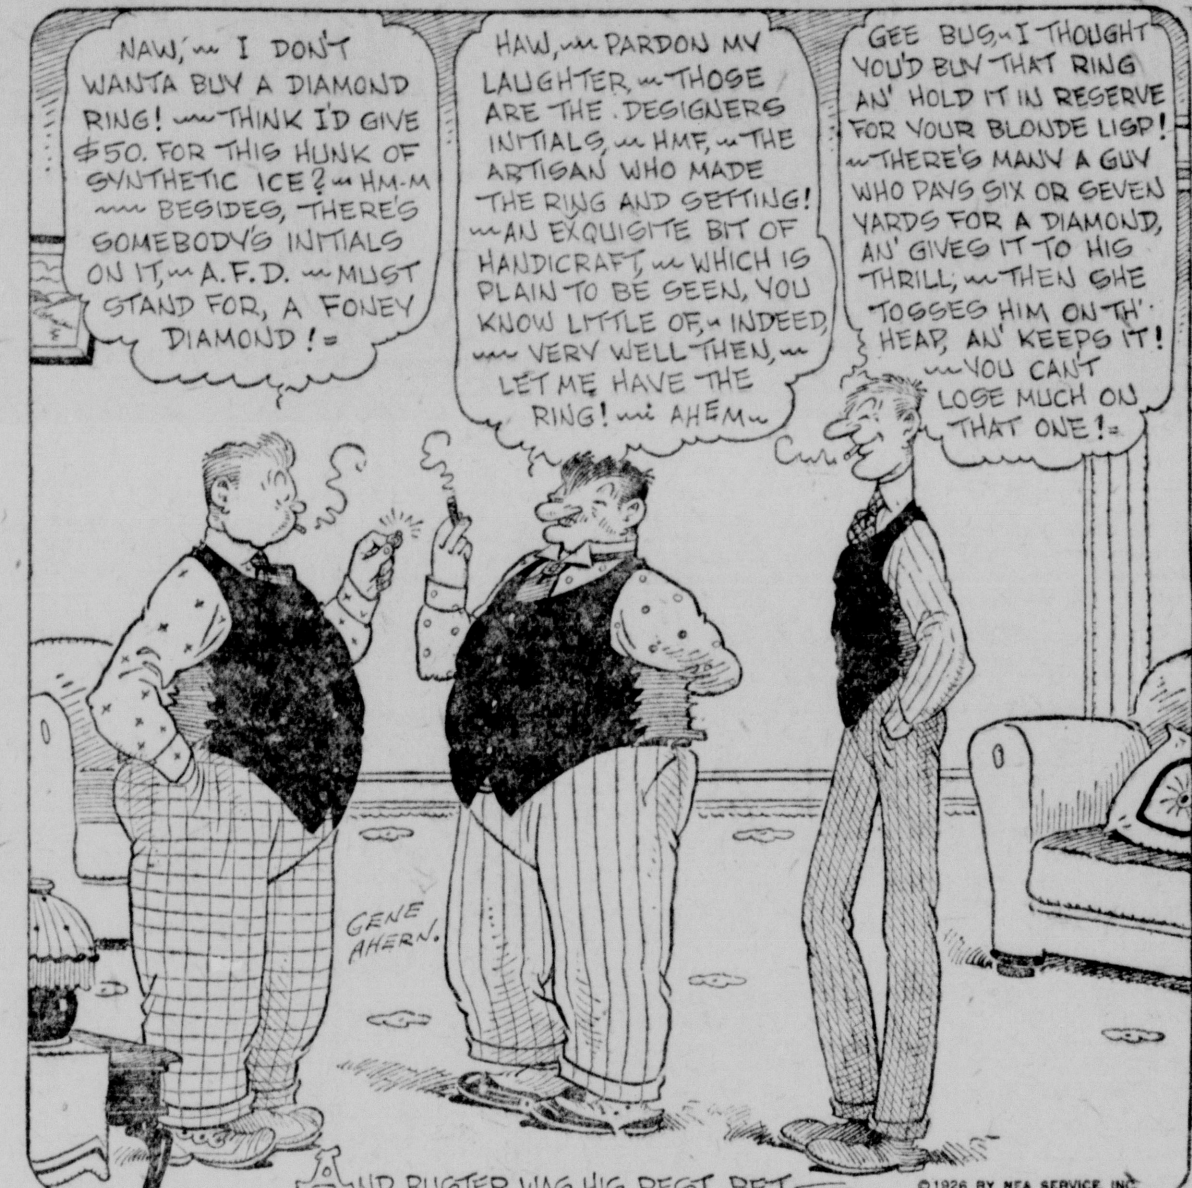

Men born on this date, through their desire to work hard, will eventually accumulate a moderate fortune.

GROOM IS REMEMBERED

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

Fifty Million Quarts of Ice Cream for Expo.

Five thousand, nine hundred and sixteen miles of ice cream.

A school boy's dream of the road to heaven? No, merely the mileage covered by 50,000,000 quarts of ice cream packed in quart boxes, each measuring seven and one-half inches, if each of the visitors to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, opening in Philadelphia on June 1, eats but one quart of that delectable sweet.

There have been many guesses as to who invented ice cream. As if anybody invented it—if just happened—any urchin will assure one.

India, centuries ago, learned to freeze it in a temperature nearly one hundred degrees above zero by a crude process of evaporation.

Philadelphia is the ice cream center of the world and the recipe for the ice cream of that city has been translated into every known language.

According to one account, an Italian confectioner, Basio, in 1800, opened an "ice cream" house and made the discovery that strawberries and ice cream or plain cream were excellent concomitants, with the result that there cropped up numerous "strawberry gardens," where these sweets were served to appreciative young people.

One of these was, it is believed, in Strawberry Mansion, now in Fairmount Park. The mansion was originally the country seat of Commodore John Barry, whose statue stands in Independence Square.

Luxury or necessity? Colonial families were permitted to eat slowly of the exquisite concoction only on such rare occasions as special holidays and celebrations. The very promise of being allowed to have ice cream served to better capacity for keeping youngsters out of mischief than the strictest rod.

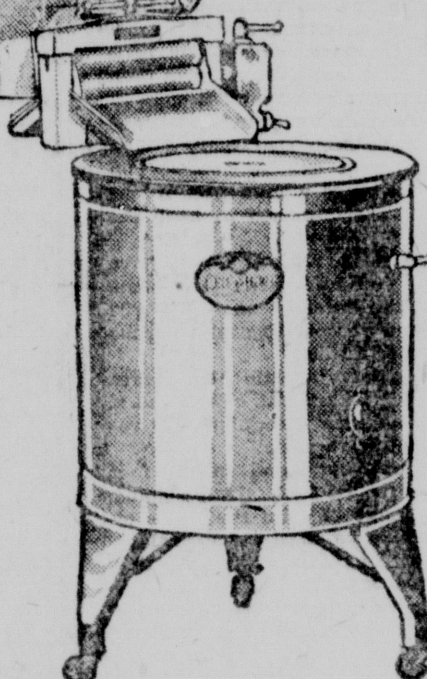

Even the most sophisticated youngster who visits the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition will express glee at "ice cream cones," "sandwiches," "goodies," "sundaes"—all of them modern offspring of yore good old ice cream.

Hailstones in India occasionally are large enough to kill people.

CURIO EXHIBITION AT BAPTIST CHURCH OF GREAT INTEREST

Everyone Invited to See
Unusual Display Collected There

It is surely no easy task to do justice to the Curio Exhibition that is being shown by the young people of the First Baptist church. It is as fine a collection of historical relics, fire arms, rare china, fancy work and numerous other articles made by people of other countries as one would find in many museums. There are curios from Japan, China, Mexico, Burma, England, France, Germany, Panama, Alaska, South India and even the United States.

Among the historical groups is to be found a copy of the "Extra" published by the New York Herald on April 15, 1865 giving an account of the assassination of Pres. Lincoln on the previous evening. Every Presidential Medal from the time of George Washington to Calvin Coolidge has been loaned by Gust. Eastland of Cambridge, Ill. A Greek and Latin New Testament published in Edinburgh, Scotland in 1598 is in the famous Theo. Beza text. A very complete set of German and Austrian Strafe Ribbons issued during the World War to commemorate their victories are found at the right as you enter the room.

A piece of Swedish plate money weights well over a pound but was worth only about $4 when issued in 1811. An ancient three piece dating back to Shakespeare's time is to be found beside a watch worn by one of Rev. Marshall's ancestors during the Prince Charles Rebellion of 1745-1746. There is a fine display of Admiral Lord Nelson Relics, including a piece of the plank on which Nelson stood when he was killed on the H. M. ship "Victory" on Oct. 21, 1805 at the battle of Trafalgar.

A letter is to be seen written by Her Majesty, Queen of England, to Rev. Marshall. A deed of the State of Pennsylvania is signed by Governor Thomas McKean, who was also one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, a bill of sale for a North Carolina slave in 1834, a Civil war chaplain's voucher for his pay, a Colonial deed issued previous to the Revolutionary war, a pass used in the Civil war and several other very interesting documents have been loaned by the people of Dixon.

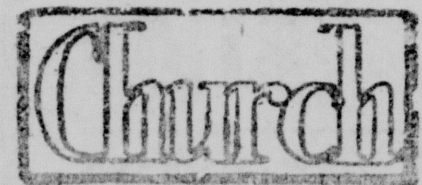

Models for the Competitive Biblical Exhibition are being brought in. These were described more fully in the Telegraph on Tuesday, Feb. 23.

Many fire arms, guns, rifles and pistols from the Civil and World wars are displayed as well as a fine collection of spears and other weapons used by the African chiefs and their followers.

One musical instrument is of special interest. It is an old French "hurdy-gurdy." A picture painted in 1857, shows Dixon as it looked when Lincoln visited it. There are also many other interesting pictures.

Then there is the china, Black wedge wood, Moselle Crown Derby, Swansea, Crown Deven, Salem and many other makes of rare value have been loaned for our inspection. Some of these dishes have been in the families for at least a hundred fifty years. Space does not permit a detailed description of the art work. There is a marvelous Chinese robe, a large Japanese table cloth, beautifully embroidered, a tray cloth made by Princess Mary or Viscountess Lascelles, a hooked rug over 50 years old, two beautiful Paisley shawls, embroidered panels, scarfs, serving trays, lunch cloths, umbrellas and many number of other interesting things.

A great deal of thanks is to be given to people of Dixon for loaning articles which are almost priceless to them. Then from the New York Missionary Society comes fine collections of almost every foreign mission field. It is not a collection that can be looked over in a few minutes for each table has its own points of interest. There are over a thousand articles displayed.

PASSION PLAY TO BE SEEN IN BLOOMINGTON Consistory to Present Play Third Time at Easter-Tide

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—For the third time Bloomington Consistory puts on next month its annual Easter-tide Passion Play.

One hundred and forty persons will enact in 44 scenes the life and crucifixion of Jesus.

It takes three hours to produce and it will be given four times, March 28, April 1, 3 and 10. Each time Scottish Rite Temple will be filled to its capacity of 1,600.

To Bloomington the Passion Play is becoming an institution. Its vivid portrayal of the trials of Jesus have gripped the imagination of the community. Commendations from visitors from a distance have increased local pride and enthusiasm.

The play is enacted in a $750,000 Consistory Temple and on one of the largest and best equipped stages in America.

It is vivid and spectacular. While the script hews to the line of Biblical text, the acting and staging are anything but simple. Scenery costing $75,000, costumes costing $20,000 and lighting effects and mechanical properties of most realistic effect help it portray the dramatic sequence of Christ's life in the manner of modern stage realism.

Delmar L. Darrah arranged the play. He manages and directs it. Aside from his salary as director of work for Bloomington Consistory, putting on annual passion plays, annual Christmas pageants of like size and the regular initiations of the order, no player in the Passion Play receives other recompense than his gratification in the production. Even the 25 stage hands are volunteers, though they are accustomed to handling the shifts of the big sets as quickly as the changes in New York theaters.

The role of Jesus is played by Frederick Hinch, joint proprietor of a local dry goods store. For three years he has handled the part enacting over and over again the emotional scenes of Passion week until they seem to have become a part of his nature.

Bloomington Consistory is made up of 4,000 members residing in Central Illinois.

FARMER IS GREAT VICTIM UNSTABLE MONEY CONDITION

Federal Reserve Board One Step to Prevent Up and Down Moves

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 24—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board is one step towards the prevention of recurrent cycles of inflation and deflation. Irving Fisher of Yale today told visitors to the Illinois Farmers Institute, but the stabilization, of the gold base is the other leg, "for the steady walking of our money."

The farmer, in one way, is the very great victim of unstable money, Prof. Fisher said, because when prices fall, the prices of farm products usually fall even more than other prices. "What is needed now," he continued, "is a dollar fixed in purchasing power, instead of fixed in weight and there is more variable."

In the last few years farmers in the United States have been through one of the severest crises they have ever encountered," Professor Fisher said. "This would have been very largely avoided if we had had a stable dollar, for, if we stabilize the dollar we stabilize business. Statistics show that the so-called business cycle is at bottom a 'dance of the dollar'."

"It is one of the most difficult things in the world to realize that the dollar is unstable. We in America realized that the mark had fallen a great deal better than did the people in Germany. We understood that the ruble had fallen, far better than the average Russian understood it. But when it comes to our own money we are like Germans or the Russians. That is we are almost universally blind to the fact that our own dollar changes. It is a fact, nevertheless, and one that we must wake up to if we are going to correct the resulting evils."

"The changes in the purchasing power of money are almost always due, for the most part, to inflation or deflation. Theoretically a rise in prices might be due to the scarcity of goods or to the abundance of money. But, as a matter of actual historical fact, it is practically always true that it is the change in the money and credit that mainly accounts for the changes in the value of the money."

Between 1896 and 1914, in this country, prices rose 50 per cent, and then there was a certain no progressive scarcity of goods.

"The high cost of living" during and even before the war did not mean that the average man was worse off; it meant that the yardstick, in terms of wealth and income was measured, had decreased.

"The wage earner is the loser of purchasing power when prices are high; that is, he is a sufferer from the high cost of living, because wages in general rise more slowly than prices.

Among the debtor and debtor-like classes are the stockholders, the private debtors and the individual producers, who carry on their own business at a profit, the largest class is the farmer. A farmer is a debtor rather than a creditor, and he takes what is left after he has his debts. When prices are rising, he gains, for a time, when prices are falling, he loses.

"One might at first conclude that the farmer's interest lay in inflation, and that the thing to do was to make prices rise all the time. That is a wrong conclusion, because prices cannot keep on rising and there will sooner or later be a recession in which the farmer will get caught, as he was during the last few years.

"Thus the final result of inflation is a lowering of production. The same is true of deflation.

"We cannot cure inflation by deflation nor cure deflation by inflation. If we try, we simply jump out of the frying pan into the fire. Two wrongs do not make a right. In 1925 we were all talking about deflation. As a consequence of the psychological demand all through the country that we must deflate, deflation took place.

THE FAMOUS T&B CIGAR

LOOK FOR THE RED CAN
TRY & BEAT IT!
WAGNER CIGAR CO.
DISTRIBUTORS: PEORIA, ILL.

It was a terrible mistake. It has smashed business, hurt the farmer, interrupted production, and done damage to the United States to the tune of billions of dollars.

"These alterations in business of so-called prosperity and depression are primarily due to these changes in price level.

"If you stabilize the price level you get rid of the major part of these fluctuations and prevent these catastrophes to the laboring men and the farmer and all of us.

"Of course, the mere stabilizing the dollar will not cure all the farmer's ills, but simply removes one of the greatest of his uncertainties.

"Moreover, the farmer in one way is the very greatest victim of unstable money. The farmer has only just regained his price position relatively to other producers and from now on suffers only as other victims of deflation suffer. For several years he has suffered more than they.

"The stabilization of the gold base through the Goldsmith bill now before Congress and the concurrent stabilization of the credit superstructure through the Federal Reserve Board make two legs for the walking of our money."

GOVT. POLICY IN AGRICULTURE PLEA OF BUREAU'S HEAD

Farmers Want Backing of U. S. in Their Present Needs

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 25—(AP)—Asking only that the United States government give agriculture the same consideration it has given labor, commerce, transportation and finance, in helping them to a clear enunciation of policy, Sam. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Wednesday declared in a speech that he is still waiting for President Coolidge to admit there is a farm problem.

"Government finally does not rest in the marble halls at Washington," Thompson declared, "nor even in President Coolidge himself, but in the sturdy homes of America. These homes eventually will determine whether there shall be a definite agricultural policy. These homes can help now, in making their wants known to the men representing them in congress who are neither better nor worse than those who have sent them there."

President Thompson spoke at the annual meeting of the Illinois Farmers Institute. "I go from here back to Washington," he said, "to try again for a clear admission on the part of the government that there is a farm problem, as one of its men has already admitted. With that we will offer our economists, who are among the best there are, to sit with the government's economists to work out a solution. Then I will fade out of the picture."

Plans For Farm Board

"Until now we have refrained from endorsing any particular measure in congress, so as to avoid causing embarrassment to anyone."

"I am pleading for an agricultural board, whether it come by the Dickinson bill or some other bill, that will give us a sound financial plan with which to face the world. We cannot expect to go on as we are now without a national disaster. City values are continuing upward and farm values continuing downward."

"Go through the country. There are no new homes, no new barns. Repairs are neglected. Does it fear the American farmer is less tidy than of yore? No. It means only that we have been driven to produce at the expense of our homes in which we live."

In Illinois alone, Mr. Thompson said, investments in Illinois farms have decreased more than a billion dollars in five years from 1920 to 1925. "This means that every acre of land farmed in Illinois has been charged off $51.90. I view this figure with alarm. It points to decaying agriculture. No other industry could possibly survive whose prices have fluctuated as did wheat prices from 1910 to 1926, between a top figure of $2.149.10 and a low figure of 75 cents."

Farmers Big Losses

"A net operating loss of $64 has been suffered by each 16,064 farms in Illinois, in a year. There was $724,666,000 less in Illinois farmers' pockets in 1925 than in 1924."

President Thompson concluded with an appeal to farmers to emulate labor unionists, to whose organizing ability he paid tribute. "They have a policy," he said, "but they have had the government behind them. They have secured an eight hour work day and the immigration restriction laws. And manufacturers have a policy and the tariff law behind them. We want nothing more than the same consideration they had had."

WINTER WHEAT UNCERTAIN.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25—(AP)—The condition of winter wheat is still uncertain, according to the weekly weather report issued here by Clarence J. Root, meteorologist.

"Winter wheat is greening some in the south," Mr. Root said, "some oats were seeded in St. Clair county."

"Good rains fell during the early part of the week, followed by snow and colder Thursday and Friday. There was considerable wind and drifting. Snow amount of six inches or more occurred in the extreme north with three inches in the extreme southeast. The snow depth was rather light over much of the central and southern areas."

"The ground is now bare except in the extreme north. Sunshine has been deficient and the highways are unusually bad."

Two tons of imitation pearls were used in Culver City, Cal., to fashion costumes for movie actresses in a huge "pearl ballet" dance.

BORDEN OFFICERS GUESTS KIWANIS CLUB AT DINNER

National Officials of Big Concern Entertained by Club

Officers and representatives of the Borden company, attending the annual international convention in Dixon, were guests of the Kiwanis club at luncheon Tuesday noon in the parlors of the Christian church. Following the luncheon, President O. H. Martin of the club, turned the meeting over to Frank J. Cahill, superintendent of the Dixon Borden plant. Misses Marion Cahill and Helen Parker, accompanied by Frank Gorham at the piano, entertained with two musical numbers.

Attorney Henry S. Dixon was the speaker of the after-luncheon session, and gave a very interesting talk. He expressed the appreciation which the Dixon community entertains toward the Borden company. Briefly, he told of the historic part of the company's Dixon plant, which he stated was opened about July 1, 1888 and known at that time as the Anglo-Swiss company, headed by the Page Brothers. Later, the plant was sold to the Borden company together with others of their holding in the United States.

"Since the opening of the Anglo-Swiss company's plant in Dixon, it has operated every day but two since the first of July, 1888," Mr. Dixon said. "It is the most valuable manufacturing institution Dixon has for continuity of employment and in serving the community at its best. The Borden company, together with other company's in the same business, has been responsible largely for the development of agriculture in the Rock River Valley. The dairy industry particularly has received an inestimable blessing in the localities which this company serves, and locally I have always found that the people of this community appreciate this service. The Borden company has always demonstrated a proper view of relationship between employer and employee, they have done the right thing by this community, they have served well and paid well, and I consider it a badge of honor for each of these guests who are gathered with us today attending this convention to be a Borden employee."

W. R. Clarke, assistant general manager of New York City, responded.

DIXON, STERLING, ROCK FALLS WILL BE IN ON BATTLE

District Basket Ball Tournament to be Between Three (?)

Here's the way the sporting editor of the Sterling Gazette sizes up the district basket ball tournament—Dixon, Sterling and Rock Falls fighting it out in the semi-finals and finals. The Gazette says:

Now that Rock Falls has come forth and disposed of the Morrison high school team on the latter's floor, which trick was accomplished Tuesday evening, the local fans are beginning to feel that Sterling will turn the trick on Morrison at the tournament here next week and that it will be a case of Sterling, Rock Falls and Dixon fighting it out in the semi-finals and finals.

If things should be so lucky for both Sterling and Rock Falls teams that they should play the final game for the championship, the spectators would not be big enough to hold the fans. On the other hand, if Sterling loses to Morrison and Morrison has to meet Rock Falls in the finals, it will be a red hot game, as the Morrison lads are getting tired of being kicked around of late. Sterling defeated the Morrison "hospital unit," most of the regulars being on the sick list, then Mt. Morris bumped off the Morrison team and now Rock Falls has sent the Hub City team farther down the list. Morrison will be in the fighting mood about tournament time.

Dixon Meets Sterling

Sterling is going to show some pre-tournament stuff Friday evening in tackling Dixon on the local floor. Sterling took to Dixon in the "cracker box" gym at Dixon several weeks ago and the locals, playing their final conference game of the season, are out to add another score to the win column. The new seats erected for the tournament will be ready for occupancy Friday night and from all indications there will be a record breaking crowd on hand to see this battle. The outcome of this game will have a strong bearing on the tournament. If Sterling can win this game from Dixon, there is every reason to believe that the same thing can be accomplished should they meet in the tournament. And if Sterling does lose this game they will be out for revenge during the tournament.

Waltonians to Probe Actions of President

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Delegates to the fourth annual convention of the Illinois State Division of the Inaak Walton League of America in their opening session here voted 23 to 7 this morning on a motion for a committee to investigate charges of inefficiency, incompetence, extravagance and other alleged shortcomings of Will H. Dill, present national president of the Waltonians.

The motion for an investigating committee was put by Clark Venable, Chicago, and brought considerable argument with the supporters of President Dill led by Delegate Hodge of Danville. On roll call the motion passed and Dr. Halford J. Morlan, state president, named Clark Venable, chairman of the committee, with delegates A. L. Anderson, Peoria; Dr. L. A. Adams of Champaign; O. H. Howe of Sycamore and Henry Dock of Naperville as members. This committee will receive evidence and make recommendations for formal action by the state division before the present convention adjourns.

Baseball World Today

Mourns for Eddie Plank

Gettysburg, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The baseball world was mourning today for Eddie Plank, one of the greatest left-handed pitchers of his time, who died yesterday. He was stricken with paralysis three days ago.

Plank was 51 years old. His physician said that 16 years of strenuous work with the Philadelphia Athletics and one season with the St. Louis Federal League club had left his heart in a weakened condition.

Many telegrams of condolence came to Mrs. Plank and her ten-year-old son. At the Athletics training camp in Fort Myers, Florida, Connie Mack said:

"I feel like a father must feel when he has lost a son. The world has lost a fine, clean sportsman. Eddie was one of the smartest left-hand pitchers in baseball. He was master of the cross fire delivery and that was one of his big assets."

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the First Presbyterian church.

LADY BOWLERS OF MT. MORRIS SEEKING GAMES

Want to Meet Team of Dixon Fair Rollers in Near Future

Mt. Morris not only boasts of a strong team of male bowlers, but this morning Manager Otto Peters of the Pastime alleys received a challenge from a team of lady bowlers from that place who are anxious to match their ability against a women's team from Dixon. Plans to bring about the staging of the match on the local alleys are under way today, the date to be announced later.

A team of bowlers from the Mt. Morris alleys rolled their sets in the Rock River Valley tournament at the Pastime alleys Tuesday eve with the following results:

Miss Wills as Great a Card as Suzanne

Monte Carlo, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The news that the Nice Tennis Club has ordered 20,000 francs worth of lumber and other material with which to build new stands on its courts has raised the hopes of some tennis devotees that Suzanne Lenglen will enter the singles competition there early next month and play Helen Wills again.

Suzanne has said that she will play no more singles matches until June and thus far she has made no announcement that she has changed her mind.

Other followers of the game think Miss Wills has become a drawing card of the same calibre as Suzanne and possibly the Nice Club officials are keeping this in mind in ordering new stands.

King Gustave of Sweden, who on the courts is known as Mr. G., and Braem Hilliard, an Englishman, have won a first round match in handicap doubles.

New Pioneer Club was Organized Tuesday Eve

Tuesday evening the Pioneer Boys' Club at the YMCA, nearly sixty boys were present with their leaders. Dr. K. R. Segner gave the boys an address on the rudiments of first aid and demonstrated the use of the triangular and roller bandages.

After a number of songs had been sung, the boys went to their group meetings. In these group meetings they took up the club proceedings with their opening ceremony and ritual, and followed this with working on the first lesson in first aid. The boys are preparing for their tests, which they will take within the next couple of weeks.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Pioneers, a new Pioneer Club was organized, the Methodists of the city now having taken up this work under three group leaders, Thos. Clayton, C. Martin and T. BOTH ASSN. TEAMS WINNERS IN LAST EVENING'S GAMES

Mendota Basket Shooters No Match for Dixon Quintets

Two of Dixon's basket ball teams again brought the laurels of victory home when the Independents and the Triangles of the local YMCA journeyed to Mendota yesterday. The two local teams went up against Mendota's light and heavy teams from the M. E. Church.

At no time in the games did the efforts of the Mendota teams seem dangerous. The Independents defeated the light weights by fast passing and held them in check with a close defense.

Rink, who has always done wonderful work at forward, was going right again last night and with the aid of his running mate, James, was able to run up a great score. Larr also worked in fine shape. Miller and Krug at guard, made a good showing and very often were the only handicapped Mendota had against their seemingly hopeless effort to score. The final score was 38 to 11.

The Triangles went into the game feeling right and soon proved the fact by scoring consistently whenever they gained possession of the ball.

With Shepard and Wickey at forwards, the Triangles had as clever a pair of passers and dead shot men as could be needed. The floor work of these men was fast and Mendota's defense was often made to appear as a joke when either of these two men decided to go through for another two points. Kerz did good work at center, serving more efficiently on the defense than the offense. He was, however, responsible for several of the numerous baskets made.

Miller and O'Malley served at guard. O'Malley was not in his right form, due to the fact that his regular position is at forward. The Mendota scores were not a result of this change, for O'Malley, however, Miller did well and was able to score several times. Mosher relieved O'Malley at the half and did very good work. Twice in the last quarter Mosher dribbled the length of the floor and made points which raised Dixon's total. The final score was, Mendota 18, Dixon Triangles, 42.

Tonight the Triangles will go to Sterling and give the Sterling coaches the game of their life. Sterling defeated the Triangles here by a score of 31 to 30. This stain the Triangles hope to blot out tonight.

Boys' Band Treasury is Enriched by Sum of $222

The Y. M. C. A. Boys' Band concert, which is being given as a benefit picture at the Dixon Theater, last night and tonight, has been a real success from the standpoint of the boys.

The boys' treasury has been enhanced to the extent of $222.75. The boys feel very grateful to every mother for the help that was given in the sale of these tickets, one mother selling 332 alone.

Webb's Team Victorious in First Volley Contest

Webb's newly organized volleyball team defeated Sellers and his new crew in two games last night on the "Y" floor and ran up a total of 30 points against Sellers' 17. The first game, Sellers was able to score only 8 points. He increased this total by one point in the second game.

This gives Raymond's division a 13 point lead so far this week. Tonight, Raymond and Carlson will pass and spike again to overcome the tie they held on Tuesday and to increase or decrease the total score now held by Raymond.

These volleyball classes are not overcrowded. There is always room for more. Business men need this

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

SENTIMENT FOR PROSPERITY ON FARMS GROWING

Director State Dept. Agriculture Tells of His Surveys

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Sentiment of the United States is growing for a more prosperous agriculture, S. J. Stansard, Springfield, director of the state department agriculture told the Illinois Farmers' Institute here today.

"Say what you please," he said, "like it or dislike it, the fact of the matter is that our markets and conditions are influenced by sentiment."

"The sentiment of the entire country is to the effect that in order to have business in a safe condition, agriculture must become more prosperous. This fact gives me a great deal of hope for even though I do not know what will be accomplished in the way of legislation in the present congress, I do know that the sentiment of the United States is for a more prosperous agriculture and I predict that this sentiment will have a very material effect upon agricultural conditions during the next few years."

Tuning to the condition of Illinois farmers he said he believed from a survey of neighboring states, that this state is in better condition than many others. He attributed the better conditions to the number of hogs and stock cattle owned by Illinois farmers and which they were able to use in disposing of the surplus corn crop.

"Illinois had a much larger production of corn than usual," he continued, "and was in the same condition as Iowa, Indiana and other states in the corn belt, but the farmers in this state being able to feed a large portion of their corn, were enabled then to market that crop through their animals at a much higher price than those who had to sell it for cash. Most all the way through, Carlson's team worked very well and Raymond's team made some poor plays. Carlson won the game and tied up the score for the evening by a score of 15 to 11.

Hard Fought Close Games in Volley Ball Tuesday

The new volleyball teams under new captains, Raymond and Carlson, put up a strenuous fight for supremacy Tuesday night on the Y floor.

The first game seemed almost a certain overwhelming victory for Raymond, but Carlson's team rallied and the victory was not so easy. Raymond won 15 to 11.

The second game was a closer one type of work and should take advantage of this opportunity to exercise and play.

New Pioneer Club was Organized Tuesday Eve

Tuesday evening the Pioneer Boys' Club at the YMCA, nearly sixty boys were present with their leaders. Dr. K. R. Segner gave the boys an address on the rudiments of first aid and demonstrated the use of the triangular and roller bandages.

After a number of songs had been sung, the boys went to their group meetings. In these group meetings they took up the club proceedings with their opening ceremony and ritual, and followed this with working on the first lesson in first aid. The boys are preparing for their tests, which they will take within the next couple of weeks.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Pioneers, a new Pioneer Club was organized, the Methodists of the city now having taken up this work under three group leaders, Thos. Clayton, C. Martin and T. Meppin. The new Pioneer Club organized Tuesday has elected officers as follows: Chief Ranger, Emerson Carlson; Deputy Ranger, Donald Dittmyer; Recorder, Dean Hey and Treasurer, Robert Redfern.

'SATAN IN SABLES'

By Bradley King

Copyright 1925 Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"Satan in Sables" with Lowell Sherman is a picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Paul, innocent young brother of Prince Michael Versedoff—wealthy philanthropist—is kidnapped and thrown off for revenge by Dolores, one of Michael's cast-off mistresses. Michael, meanwhile, honestly interested in Dolores, an unwelcome girl, seeks in the Paris underworld for her motherless nephew, stolen by her Apache brother-in-law, Emilie. The Apache King, Decline, a friend of Michael's, guides him to Emilie's hiding place.

"Shut your mouth, you little fool—and go to sleep quickly, for we are going to be off early in the morning, away from Paris into the country."

"—but I don't want to go to the country without Auntie," the child broke in plaintively.

Emilie brandished a threatening hand toward the troubled little fellow. "Not another word, brat, or I'll split your face!"

Billy lapsed into heavy-hearted silence.

Emilie addressed to him, for want of anyone else, a stupid, drunken revelation of rankling hate.

"Your devil of an Aunt has double-crossed me for the last time!" He gulped down the dregs of the bottle; the reflection of the candle flame formed tiny red spearheads in the dilated pupils of his blood-shot eyes. He seized the empty bottle by the neck, and swished it recklessly through the air, while he boasted to the boy who could not understand.

"—and that damn swell friend of hers—him, by Our Lady, I'll pay back for what he did to me

"Hear me, dog! Do you remember the Ferbelean murder?"

the other night. I'll break open his skull, if I have to go to the guillotine for it! I'll—"

Emilie's imprecations died behind his teeth and an ashy pallor drained the drink-heated blood from his face when, upon hearing a scornful laugh behind him, he turned to look full into the sneering face of Decline who, with Michael, had softly opened the door and stepped into the room.

Emilie cursed the luck that had made him neglect to lock the door. And he cursed Decline when that worthy carefully turned the key in the door, so that he and Michael now were locked in the room with Emilie and Billy.

Drink and the devil made for reckless bravado in Emilie; he staggered to his feet and lurched towards Decline and Michael, his upraised hand ready to strike them with the bottle.

"What the hell do you two want?" He dribbled vile curses at them with his cognac-thickened tongue. "What are you following me around—get out of here or I'll kill you!"

Decline coolly stopped close to Emilie, ignoring the threatening bottle. He thrust his nose close to Emilie's and with deliberate unconcern spat in Emilie's face.

Emilie recoiled and snarled terribly under the deadly insult, and tensed his arm to crash the bottle down upon Decline's head—but it was no use; he was powerless to move under the cold, calm eyes of the Apache chief.

"Pig!" snapped Decline contemptuously. "You have taken one step too far!" Quick as thought Decline snatched the bottle away from Emilie, and slapped him across the face so hard that he was knocked to the floor.

Disarmed, subjugated, Emilie got unsteadily to his feet, hastened by a spur from Decline's feet.

"What do you want?" he whined, subdued hate showing now only in the baleful alertness of his shifty eyes.

"What are you doing with that boy?" asked Decline, nodding toward the thoroughly terrified Billy.

"What is that to anyone but me? He's my child, isn't he—and it's my right to do as I please with him. What is that damn swell interfering for?" Emilie's eyes gleamed wickedly toward Michael.

"Not on my own account, I assure you," said Michael, "but for the sake of the girl who raised this child, and who loves him—"

Decline interrupted Michael. "Please do not trouble yourself to answer this swine, M'sieu. Leave him to me—for I know the only sort of language that his sewer of a mind can understand."

Decline turned upon Emilie again. "Hear me, dog! Do you remember the Ferbelean murder?" He paused, and arched his eyebrows with a cynical, quizzical smile while watching the effect of his words upon Emilie.

It was, indeed, a startling effect; gone the last trace of braggadocio, gone the strength from his limbs, the balefulness from his eyes, the last faint flush of angry blood from his face.

He sank weakly into the chair—cold sweat upon his forehead, abject fear in his manner and eyes.

"So!" chuckled Decline. "So, ah, so! Now I might add, you fool, that this gentleman"—indicating Michael—"has complete information concerning that crime. Every detail—every single detail—of it! He is about to go to the Prefect's office and make known this information. Then—" Decline sliced his fingers across his throat and gurgled horribly in grim suggestion of the guillotine.

"He hasn't any evidence—you are trying to bluff me to scare me! I don't know anything about it!" whined Emilie, staring wide-eyed at Michael.

Decline drew a long breath. Then, slowly, "Bluff, eh? Would it be bluff if he told you—where you buried the body?"

"It was an accident—it was an accident—I didn't murder him!" screamed Emilie, covering his face with his hands.

Decline glanced at Michael with covert relief. Then, "Accident, eh?" he sneered at Emilie. "Well, you can try to make the police believe that, but I think you will have a hard job on your hands. Now we will go, Monsieur," he said to Michael. They started for the door, only to be held back by Emilie, who suddenly groveled on the floor and clasped Decline around the knees.

"No, no, for God's sake, don't go!" he gasped in terror. "What do you want? Why did you come here? Just give me a chance to get out of the country that's all I want, and I'll agree to anything—"

"So? You are beginning to have a little sense," replied Decline, "and just in time. Now see here, pig, my words will be few and to the point. You stole that boy from your sister-in-law, who has given her life to him, just to be revenged on her because she would not agree to become a thief like you, and also to be revenged on this gentleman because he happened to sell his hands on you the other evening. This gentleman can have you sent to the guillotine at any moment he chooses, but is willing to hold that information back from the police as long as you behave yourself and do what he says."

"What—what is that?" Emilie rose from his knees and dully slumped into the chair. Michael and Decline drew aside and whispered together for a short while. Presently Decline addressed Emilie once more.

"You are not fit to raise the boy. Tomorrow, you sign an agreement giving your sister-in-law the legal charge of him so that you can never again molest either one of them. Then this gentleman will not only keep secret the information he has about the Ferbelean case, but will also give you the passage money to leave France and go to some other country. He is too generous, I tell him. Well, what do you say?"

Emilie thought for a moment, then whined: "It isn't right to keep a father from his child." Decline stopped him abruptly.

"The guillotine will separate you very effectively, then—not alone from him, but from your head! Come on, Monsieur, we are wasting our time on this rogue."

"Wait a moment," said Emilie hastily. "I haven't said I wouldn't do it, have I? Where would I get passage money to? I've always wanted to go to South America for I have some friends there."

"You can go there," Michael said, "the further the better!"

"But how can we arrange things?" Emilie whined, "and how do I know that you will keep your promise?"

"How dare you talk like that to my friend!" Decline roared.

THE YELLOW STUB

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
HENRY RAND, middle-aged business man, is expected home to help celebrate his son JIMMY'S 25th birthday. A theater party is planned to include Jimmy, his father and mother, his sister JANET, and her fiancé, BARRY COLVIN.

While they are waiting, police telephone with word that Henry Rand is dead in a cheap hotel. The body is found in a gas-filled room, a small welt on the back of the head. The only clues are a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow tinaret ticket.

Janet Rand breaks her engagement with Colvin, because of the "disgrace." Jimmy learning that the stub is from the Paragon Theater in Cleveland, leaves for Cleveland with DETECTIVE MOONEY.

Now go on with the story
CHAPTER VI
NOT a day to go on, Rand, but better than nothing," Detective Mooney folded his wall let, in which he had just replaced the yellow theater stub and the handkerchief.

The train was pulling into Cleveland. "As far as I'm concerned," observed Mooney as they were leaving the Pullman, "the first thing to do is to get in touch with the local police. Courtneys of the profane, you know."

He continued, more seriously, "I'll have to let the detective bureau know I'm here and what for. Chances are they'll be glad to give us a lift if they can be of any use. After that I'm darned if I know our next move, unless it's to go down to this Paragon Theater and see if there's any chance of running down the guy who bought this ticket."

He tapped his chest, where the wallet reposed in the inner pocket of his coat. "There's about as much chance of doing that," he added, "as of finding a needle in a haystack."

"But still a chance," Jimmy persisted. "Well, I'm not overlooking any bet, no matter how slim they look. Give me credit for that."

"Look here, Mooney," Jimmy hastened to add at sight of the other's injured look, "don't think I have any idea that this thing is going to be cleared up in a day. I haven't. As a matter of fact, I've come here prepared to stay for some time and the first thing I'm going to do is to hunt up a rooming house and a job. I haven't the slightest idea of how to go about running down a clew. I'm not one of these story-book amateur detectives. I'm darn glad you're along with me, Mooney."

"I have an idea, though, that I can be of some help. Besides," he added, "when we catch this—this man we're looking for, Mooney, I want to be there."

Mooney looked at him shrewdly. "So that's the way the land lies," he said. "I've an idea, Rand, that you intend to make it hot for this customer if we do find him. Look here, now," he turned on Jimmy. "You'll not be pulling any rough stuff on anybody while I'm along. The law will take care of 'em."

Jimmy was staring vacantly at the passing crowd in the station. He did not answer. When he spoke he gave no indication that he had even heard.

"While you're down at police headquarters, Mooney, I'll be looking around for some place to live, and perhaps for a job. And if I want to do any job hunting," he added, "I'll have to get a hustle on. Today is Saturday and most places will be having a half holiday. Suppose I meet you at two o'clock."

"Two o'clock," agreed Mooney. "In front of the Paragon Theater. We must as well start out on the right foot."

"A chance in a million," said the ticket seller, "and you hit it!"

who had just moved out—"to get married"—had been particularly insistent on having a phone in his room.

"Of course, if you don't want it," she added, "we can have it taken out. It will cost you 50 cents a week extra."

"I think I'll have it," decided Jimmy. "How much is the rent?" "Eighty-five a week, with the phone in advance,"

"Here's a week's rent," Jimmy handed her the money and she stuck it in the large pocket of her checked gingham apron.

"The phone, Mr.—Mr.—" "Rand," supplied Jimmy, "James Rand."

"About the phone, Mr. Rand. You can use it all you want for outgoing calls. The incoming calls ring at the one downstairs. I'll have to call you when someone phones you and you can answer it right here."

Jimmy walked to the window and looked out. The room was on the second floor, front, and overlooked a neatly kept yard in a neighborhood where business was fast changing what apparently had once been a desirable residential district.

What especially pleased Jimmy about the room was its nearness to downtown. Close enough to walk to and from work, he thought, and there would have to be strict economy. A saving of car fare would help.

He washed and changed into fresh linen. Then, armed with his newspaper, he set out in search of a job. . . .

Where his search for a room, satisfied, will on SATURDAY, the 6th day of March, A. D. 1926,

BEST OF RADIO PROGRAMS

Pick of the Talent Announced by Radio Stations Throughout the United States

WANDERLUST LURE NOT SO APPARENT AMONG THE FANS

DX Seeking Has Become Largely a Sport as Radio Improves

Chicago—The lure of the wanderlust that once kept the radio listener ever on the hunt for programs coming from somebody else's hometown is slowly but surely giving way to the idea of "hearing the locals first." Probably improved radio programs at home may have something to do with this, and then again the fact that distance reception is more of less unreliable may be another factor.

Distance, long ago abbreviated to "DX" by the word chopping amateur transmitter, has become largely a sport, only to be indulged in when the tired business man wants to play. In his more serious mood the listener does not care to go rambling about the country. He stays at home and the best program gets his ear. The slip stick order of things does not seem to apprise this critic any more.

This attitude of the listener has largely been responsible for an evolution of the radio program, which is following closely in the footsteps of the moving picture theaters.

Only the best that can be offered in the way of sound entertainment is being used to make up broadcasting programs. Drama of the better type, stunts from all walks of life and numerous feature attractions have been called upon.

And the only conclusion to be drawn nestles in the fact that the listener, now that he realizes his radio set is more than a toy and something not to be torn apart whenever the notion strikes him, wants only the best. If he can't get that he saves his power supply.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

CARS TO STORE SELVES IN NEW CHICAGO GARAGE

Unusual Arrangements to Feature Loop Plant in City

Chicago, Feb. 25—(AP)—A twenty-two story garage in which motor cars will store themselves in record time, and as briskly roll forth at the touch of a button, is being built for the automobile-choked Chicago loop district.

From forty seconds to two minutes will be delivery time in this garage, which occupies the central space of the Jewelers' building now under construction. The owner drives his car upon a loading platform before one of the elevators. An attendant takes a key from a master board, numbered to correspond with a vacant stall. The withdrawal of the key makes electrical connections which set in motion a sliding platform above, and the vacant stall comes to rest in front of the elevator shaft.

Meanwhile the elevator operator punches a button which thrusts up mechanism under the loading platform and the car slides into the elevator. The operator dials a number and the elevator rises to the floor assigned, where the door opens automatically. The operator presses a button, and the platform in the elevator tilts, letting the car slide into its stall. There humpers engage the tires and hold it in place until the owner returns for his car. A somewhat similar process returns the car.

INDIANA TEACHER TOO MODERN FOR CHURCH DEACONS

So He Must Face a Trial by Board From the Church

Palmira, Ind., Feb. 25—(AP)—Because he organized basketball and football teams, encouraged roller skating and band practice on Sunday, and built a community house where he allowed checker playing and amateur plays, W. Clyde Martin, 40, farmer, educator and athlete, must face trial at the Church of Christ here next Sunday on charges of recreational practices unbecoming to a church worker.

Martin, a native of this village, returned here after graduating from Winona Agriculture College where he played football and basketball. He became principal of the local high school. He had the board of trustees tear out a partition of the school which he turned into a gymnasium. People of the town disapproved of his recreational activities and at the next election voted to put back the partition.

Martin then constructed a community hall at his own expense which soon became the center of the young social life of the town. Plays were given by local talent. Checkers were permitted, but card playing was not. When he allowed the plays, one of the deacons of the church demanded he be excluded from taking an active part in the church, saying he was too worldly.

Martin demanded a public trial. Three judges, one selected by Martin, one by the church and one by his accuser will preside.

He announced he will conduct his own case, saying he will prove from the scriptures that modernism isn't irreligious.

People of Tyrol Appeal to United States Senator

Innsbruck, Austrian Tyrol, Feb. 24.—(AP)—After a mass meeting attended by 3,000 persons here last night, a cable message was sent to Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee of the American senate, asking his assistance in behalf of southern Tyrol, the former Austrian territory which was given to Italy after the World war. The message said in part:

"Representatives of Tyrol pray a noble friend of peace to bear in mind that Tyrol, which Mussolini has officially threatened with a Fascist invasion and whose southern portion is ruled by Italy, is tortured by inhuman cruelties."

It points out that President Wilson in his memoirs, referred to the transfer of southern Tyrol to Italy as the gravest error in the peace settlement.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

John Lumpkins, Dayton, Ohio, says: "Come to 7 Carrie St. and I will show you 25 pieces of gravel that passed after taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). Had to get up 15 times at night for two years. Alright Now." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder like Epsom salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. UNCLE SAM HELPS COLLECT MONEYS DUE POKER WHIZ

And Now Officials are Wondering Who'll Pay the Bill

New York, Feb. 25—(AP)—Charles C. Davis, able seaman, not only won the ready cash of his messmates in a 25 day poker game on the high seas between San Francisco and New York, but obtained the aid of the United States government to collect some of his winnings.

A five cent poker game, started at San Francisco on the oil tanker LaBren, was continued with time off for sleep, meals and work. When the tanker reached New York the game was wide open and Davis had $250 in cash and $500 in "I. O. U.'s." All on a borrowed dollar from the ship's cook.

The players got suspicious, examined the cards, detected what they felt were rather unethical markings and descended on Davis. They relieved him of his winnings and split them up pro rata. In the ensuing discussion Davis was mauled badly and came into port wearing bandages.

He went to Assistant U. S. Attorney Cathella, when the tanker arrived, to press charges of assault. Mr. Cathella got into touch with Commissioner Cotter, they got a detective sergeant in case arrests were to be made and sped to the LaBren in a hired tug when they learned she was due to sail early today.

As the crew was lined up Davis suddenly announced that he would withdraw the assault charges if the players compromised. He got $63 from one, $20 from another and smaller amounts as he passed his hat.

Then he announced that as far as he was concerned the matter was over. The government officers are now wondering who will pay the $100 for the hired tug.
